“ You and Uncle Adolph were the first example of business owners that I ever saw in real life! I can remember going to your cleaners as a child and couldn't believe that someone in our family actually owned a business in Chicago. Before that, it only existed on TV (to me). You showed us that this was real and not just entertainment. This kept us from falling into traps later in life and believing that we were meant to work for others. There have been so many of us after you that have started successful businesses. I thank you for everything you instilled in us, and showing us how to fight (literally and figuratively) for what we wanted in life and believed in. You will truly be missed! I love you. Until we meet again...
