“ Curtis Dulaney is another Chicago legend in the long line. Many like me around the country and not from Chicago knew him through his daughter, Dr. Kim Dulaney. When she would evoke his name and/or tell stories about him, the reaction of elders like Baba Conrad Worrill (another Ancestral Chicago legend) would tell us just what he meant to our people in Chi. Travel well, our New Ancestor. May your soul rise like the sun, eternally, and may you be more powerful in Ancestorhood than you were even as you walked on top of the earth. Ase! --Greg Carr

“ " My Nephew was older than me, so he babysit for me when I was a baby, while his grandparent worked the farm. did not see him much threw the years. But we new him as the family member with the ability to play sports, football and baseball. And the grandson that our father loved. when he attended his grandfather's funeral, the ladies was asking about him for months. LOL He will be remembered fondly.

“ As a kid, he would let us try to squeeze his hands as hard as we can.. But we could not make him say; Our handshake was firm enough, Every visit we would run right to him to try squeezing his hands harder, Not knowing we were practicing for adulthood. 😊
