“ I did not know DeMario, but I know his story all too well. My twin brother died when we were fifteen from an accident with a handgun. I too lost a twin to a senseless act with a gun. My heart goes out to his family. Especially his twin brother. Please let him know there are support groups out there for twins who lose their twins. One of the biggest is Twinless Twins Support Group International (TTSGI). There are also lots of books out there to help us Twinless Twins understand and cope with our unique loss. My sympathies. `Fellow TT Brea Behn

This was an amazing young man, that cared About his peers&family. As a mom, I'm speechless BC I want to give my condolences to his mom but I'm so lost for words of comfort. My daughter attends Johnson with the Bailey young men. If there is anything I can do just simply ask, Demario isn't here but he has left a legacy for other youth regardless if color or gender. Mom be proud, your son was a blessings to everyone that had a encounter with him. God bless you&your family.

“ My sincerest condolences to the family of Demario Bailey. I do not know DeMario or his family on a personal level but I have 2 sons which helps me relate on a maternal level. My God, it has to be the hardest job ever to bury your child because of such tragedy. I am praying for your family and rest assured, Calahan Funeral Home is the best place and has the best staff to take care of your personal needs during this time of grief. God bless the Bailey family and rest in heaven, DeMario!

If we had the power to get rid of death, I'm sure you would, this is one who has the power to remove death and the Bible proves it at Isaiah 25:8 where it says he will swallow up death forever.
