“ Mark was a cousin, in line of cousins. I recall his ready and genuine smile with which he greeted me upon every one of our meetings which were too few. We connected because we were family, family love was shared, though unspoken by words. I first saw Marks smile when he was a youngster and I visited during my time in military. Marks smile was seen in the hospital also, this time love words were spoken and we smiled. Mark smiles today, because to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord. See you later cousin.

“ Mark my cousin, in a chain of cousins, is special. When I think of Mark I recall the ready easy and sincere smile with which he greeted me on every meeting. Our meetings in this world were too few, sadly. We connected simply because we were related, we are family and the connection was real, there was an unspoken understanding. Being older I recall the first meeting, I was in military service and 15 years older and I visited and had my first introduction to that smile. Mark smiles even now, for to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord. See you later cousin Mark.
