“ Sister Marlienne was a childhood friend of my parents. Her mother and my grandmother were friends as well. I remember them at church with her other brothers and sister. Her family was very well acquainted through the years and life events with mine. She became my Sister Aunt. Down through the years remembering her singing and playing the piano and organ. She was just a smooth vocalist. She could make the organ respond to my father's preaching...that was so cool. She did not blast over her instrument. She was in harmony and focused on the totality of what she was harmonizing. She was very light spoken and had a serious mean of what and how she portrayed her Apostolic belief.

My Aunt Yvonne was Marlienne class mate in grammar and high school. She will cherish her memories in church as well. Avid memories of the Sunday school picnics at the Dan Ryan Preserves. She also remembered her leaving her in the shallow waters as she swam with the Big Fish... Copernicus and Lindbloom was the stomping ground for many of their childhood memories. Englewood Church was their beginning foundation that carried them through out their life of holiness.
