“ We grew up on May St. together, talked with him around Christmas time, he wanted to know how to make chicken salad, and if I would cook him chitterlings, lol, I preached to him about why he shouldn't eat them, he sent me a text, a thumbs up. I wonder if he ever got his chitterlings

“ Ty and I were good friends he always called and checked on me. We would always talk about our childhood life and how he was very proud I moved out of Chicago with my son's to give them a better life. He would call me my time 3am to talk about his illness and ask for prayers. I'll always carry him in my heart and he is truly missed never forgotten. He's no more in pain rest in peace my friend....rest in peace
